ISC2 NCR Chapter Mission

The International Information Systems Security Certification Consortium, National Capital Region Chapter (ISC)2 -NCR, is the Chapter that represents the interests and objectives of (ISC)2 and its members in the Washington DC metropolitan area. Within this region lie the U.S. Federal Government, U.S. Cyber Command, U.S. Defense and Intelligence communities, and the companies that support the Federal information assurance community, as well as dozens of our nation's Fortune 500 commercial corporations. Our objective is to support the information assurance and security community, to promote the growth and professional development of the members of our Chapter, and to encourage the attainment of appropriate training and certification throughout a professional's career. The (ISC)2 -NCR Chapter supports the (ISC)2 mission: "We make society safer by improving productivity, efficiency, and resilience of information-dependent economies through education and certification." Additionally, the (ISC)2-NCR Chapter plans, coordinates, integrates, synchronizes and conducts activities to advance the professional values and goals of our industry and to provide advocacy and support for issues of interest to the information assurance and security community, and our membership.
